LETTER TO THE EDITOR

J BUON and important biomedical databases

Sir,

The main goal of editors of scientific journals is to make their journal visible and accessible to as much large audience as possible. This means that the journal must be indexed in important indexing-abstracting databases. Although the Journal of the Balkan Union of Oncology (J BUON) has a relatively short history, it nevertheless has so far been included in several such databases.

Being included in important databases implies that this particular journal has attracted authors to submit manuscripts of high quality. The latest news that J BUON is covered since 2006 in PubMed Central and PubMed-MEDLINE [1] is the mutual achievement of all authors and the editors of J BUON. And a very great achievement, too!

We believe that this will undoubtedly attract more authors to submit even more quality papers, and therefore the quality of our journal will be even higher. Consequently, our ambition to be covered by the most important database – Science Citation Index – will no longer be such an unrealistic goal!
